Drag out your shovels, pails, and take your plans off the drawing board because this is the weekend that the Great Sand Castle Contest of Carmel is to be held. Slated for October 1, the contest is expected to draw about 200 entries this year. Grand Marshal Donald Brown encourages everyone to LEAVE THEIR DOGS AT HOME! It would be a shame to spend a morning and afternoon constructing a masterpiece and have a well meaning animal dig an unexpected hole in an undesirable place. Speaking of digging holes, Brown reminded all participants that there is one rule by which one must abide . . . do not dig a hole deep enough to bury a person—sand does cave in. This year the Marshals will come around to the individual Castles to assign numbers and register the entries. There will be 40 awards given; 15 to the Advanced Sandbox and 25 to the Novice Sand Pile entries with a surprise Grand Award given to the best Advanced Sandbox. Brown said that the tide will be high at about 10:10 a.m. and will be out at 4:30 p.m. Make your plans accordingly. Named as judges this year are: David Smith, architect; Fred Keeble, architect; Bill Cranston, architect; Walter Burde, architect; Stephen Sassoon, structural engineer; Don Buby, sculptor; Eldon Dadini, cartoonist; Lou Rudolph, interior designer; and Mayor Steve Grant.

Sunset Rent Fees Schedule To Be Reviewed

The Sunset Commission waded right into the gripping problem of the Sunset rental fee schedule Monday evening, solving little but making some headway.

All of the commissioners agreed, after a lengthy discussion, that the schedule MUST BE reviewed, and recommended that the administrative committee delve deeply into the question.

Sunset Manager Cole Weston was present to explain to the commissioners that the price of 10c per square foot charge that is now inflicted upon the tenants resulted in inaccurate totals since originally the space was "paced off" rather than calculated from floor plans. The commissioners were concerned about how tenants would feel if their prices were raised, especially since some of the rooms rented are more desirable than others.

"Money is not important . . . If we didn't get a cent, it would be worth it," Chairman Dr. James Gilman said while discussing the aims and procedures at Sunset.

Commissioner Robert Evans, Sr. pointed out that "money is the only common denominator" to put these people on an equitable basis.

Marlinde Von Ruhs spoke from the audience, summing up the feelings of several tenants at the Center: "Until the SECRET of the place is lifted, how can you talk about rasiing rent?"

Devendorf Bust In City Hall

The bust of the late Frank Devendorf ("Devvy"), as he was called, sculptured by his daughter Flora Maxwell, and given to Dr. James Gilman at her request before her death, was presented to Mayor Steve Grant by Dr. Gilman at Monday night's meeting of the Cultural Commission.

Dr. Gilman was assured that the bust would be displayed at City Hall in a prominent place to remind people of his generosity and love of the town which he helped found. According to Pinon who wrote Carmelights in 1965, the d-e-v-e-n in the name rhymes with seven.

Commission Makes Motels Legal

Yesterday afternoon the Planning Commission met for their regular meeting and "butted" heads with Motel owners and their attorney.

Attorney George Walker representing a number of the so-called "Illegal motels," told the Planning Commission, "We are interested in what you are interested in . . . the legal status of the motels." He went on to say that his clients cannot come before the commission and admit they are illegal, to which Chairman Dorothy Von Meier replied, "They do not have to come and ask for a use permit." She said that the commission merely recognizes them and welcomes them.

Walker suggested minor changes in the new ordinance, questioning the $2,000 limit set on altering existing facilities. The commission raised the limitation to $4,000, giving the motels more leeway. The commissioners admitted that the $2,000 figure was inadvertantly "picked out of the air."

Walker again wanted to know how the motel owners could be assured that they met all requirements of the new ordinance. Commissioner Von Meier ferely said, "We accept them."

The ordinance, with the revision, will go back to the City Council for approval.

WEATHER

Mostly sunny with morning and evening overcast. Temperatures to range from mid 70's to low 50's. A little chance of a shower.

Offsite Is Off Say Officials

After a 4-1 decision in favor of an offsite meeting, the City Council reversed its decision and agreed not to have an offsite meeting because without all the members being present, this unique proposal by Dr. Melvin Steckler would not work.

Dr. Steckler, the business management consultant who has been retained by the City to improve working conditions on a municipal level, said in an interview, "It does not ruin the program." He added that this meeting would only "speed up and add to the effectiveness" of the three phase educational program he has presented to the Council.

The one vote against the offsite came from Councilman Herbert Blanks who said, "The offsite was not appropriate for a political body." He hastened to mention that "I'm not making a swipe at Dr. Steckler, I just feel that it was not in the best interest of the city."

The offsite meeting was designed to take the Council members away from their normal environment so they could work out any personality problems which might be evident during decision making.

Steckler will continue on with his program which will include classroom instruction at Sunset and three study sessions of the Council.

"Arms and the Man" Gay and Amusing

Nervous fingers and a few dropped props were the only evidences of opening night jitters at the Circle Theatre as George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" got off to a superb start heading for a 6 week run of success.

"Arms and the Man" was Shaw's tongue-in-cheek way of pointing up the absurdities of war and heroism. If you remember, it was duplicated on the screen as "The Chocolate Soldier."

Nick Hovick, who played the Captain Bluntscheli, probably was the most convincing of the performers, getting the most from his lines and not depending upon overt motions or forced projection. Anita Whitaker, playing Raina Petkoff, the other half of the romantic lead, carried her part equally as well interpretating her lines with excellence.

Marcia Hovick, portraying Mme. Petkroff was somewhat weak at the offset, but as the play progressed her part picked up remarkably. This was due entirely to the playwright who seemed not to give Mme. Petkroff too much identity in the beginning. (Goodness, who are we to criticize George Bernard Shaw!).

Herbert Bird came on strong as Major Petkroff and continued his convincing role for the remainder of the play.

It must be very difficult to play straight lines when everyone else enjoys more comic roles. Regardless, the servants, Joan Swartz as Louka, and Winston Elstob as Nichola, both contributed their very best to the overall success of the play.

William Lewis, playing Sergius Saranoff the calvary hero, turned in a funny, funny performance. His role was aided by the playwright who built a perfect image of Major Sergius Saranoff in the first act.

Director Norman McPhee put together a fine show aided by a competent cast of performers and stage crew. "Arms and the Man" offers a delightful evening for peninsula playgoers. — B.W.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

"Gourmet Fare at La Playa"

There has been a rejuvenescense at La Playa, thanks to the new co-owners Mr. Don Kanights and Mr. Charles Harris. Party Plans is especially interested in the menu angle since the setting is so old Carmel but with an up-to-date sparkle.

Fortunately for Carmelites and visitors alike, Mr. John (Yanshi) Toldi is the master chef who has brought European savoir faire to what's cooking on Eighth and Camino Real. Raised in his native Budapest, young John fled his homeland during the revolution of 1959 and earned his way as chef at England's coastal resorts for four years. His brother had come to Carmel 15 years previously and urged John to join him here. Romance entered into the picture when Georgette Nopert of Brussels and John were married in our renowned "village." All are from families of great continental restauranteurs. How lucky that we can produce these exclusive recipes which John obligingly gave us.

Ramos Fizz

For one drink: 1½ oz. gin; good dash of fresh lemon juice; 1 bar spoon sugar; dash of orange flower water; white of 1 egg; 3 oz. half-and-half cream. Whir in electric blender with a few ice cubes. Strain and top drink with grated nutmeg.

Hungarian Goulash (Szekely Gulyas)

Three lbs. chuck round of beef; 1½ tsps. salt; dash of pepper; 1 garlic clove, minced; 1 tbsp. Hungarian paprika; 4 tbsps. butter; 3 onions, sliced; 2 tbsps. tomato paste; 1 cup beef bouillon; ½ green pepper, seeded and thinly sliced; boiled potatoes.

Sprinkle meat with salt, pepper, paprika; add garlic. Melt butter in heavy kettle or Dutch oven. Saute meat on all sides; during last half of browning, add onions, tomato paste, bouillon and green pepper. Cover tightly, simmer slowly until meat is fork tender. Caraway seeds may be added if desired. Serve with boiled potatoes. Add more beef broth as it evaporates and thicken slightly with cornstarch if necessary.

Boeuf Bourguignon en Cocottee

Three lbs. bottom round of beef, cut into 2-inch cubes; 1½ tsps. flour; 1 tsp. salt; ¼ tsp. pepper; 6 slices salt pork; ½ tsp. thyme; 1 bayleaf; 1 cup Burgundy wine; ½ cup water; 12 small white onions, peeled; 1 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced.

Dust meat with flour, salt and pepper. Saute salt pork and onions in heavy skillet or "cocotte". When brown, remove to dish for later use. Brown meat in fat from salt pork. Combine with salt pork, thyme, bayleaf, wine and water. Cover tightly and simmer slowly until meat is almost tender (about 1 hour). Add onions and mushrooms and more Burgundy whenever additional liquid is needed. Cook until everything is tender but not over done. Remove bayleaf. Garnish with parsley. Serve with noodles and Frenched stringbeans.

Coq au Vin Rouge

Three young roasting chickens (2½ lbs., each); ½ cup butter; 1½ cups claret or Burgundy wine; 1 bouquet garni; beef broth; 1 lb. mushrooms; 6 medium onions; salt and pepper to taste; flour for thickening; crisp bacon, crumbled.

Roast the chickens until well browned in the butter. Cut into serving pieces and put into large shallow casserole. Add the wine, the bunch of herbs tied together (thyme leaves, chervil, rosemary, parsley and garlic clove) in a cheesecloth bag; enough beef broth to make a nice juicy sauce thickened with a little flour or cornstarch; the sliced mushrooms and chopped onions; add salt and pepper to juices. Simmer on top of stove in covered casseroles until tender.

Debussy Piano Concerts

Gilbert Boyer, Carmel concert pianist, will present a series of four lecture-concerts on Debussy October 3, 10, 17 and 31 (Tuesdays) at Monterey Peninsula College in the music hall, 7:30 to 10 p.m.

The concerts, under the unifying title "Claude Debussy: Tradition Breaker, Image Maker," will include all of the composer's compositions for solo piano.

Boyer, who presented a similar series on Frederic Chopin at MPC last year, is well equipped to perform the French impressionist composers because of extensive study with concert pianists eminent in this field.

Tickets, nominally priced, may be purchased at Communtiy Services Office, Monterey Peninsula College.

Skaalegaard's Show

by Louise Cook

Tucked away in Los Cortes, behind the office of Perry and Burleigh and adjoining the Carmel Business Association office, is Skaalegaard's Art Gallery on Dolores Street.

Paintings of salty sailing ships with a strong masculine appeal by Hans Skaalegaard are shown here. As a young man the artist sailed on just such ships as we have reproduced here. His work is accomplished with vigorous, masterful strokes and are good enough to have been given a one man showing at the Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco. Even a seaman could find no fault with the rigging, heel of hull in relation to the size of waves, etc.

How sad it is that these regal monarchs no longer sail into Monterey Bay.

Other Carmel artists featured at Skaalegaard's are Nick Guastella who does the elegant wood sculpture, Robert Glen, who just passed on this week, and his son Bruce who moved here from Scotland. Robert painted the traditional English scene while Bruce's subject matter is the nostalgia of Old West ghost towns, done meticulously in the exacting method of egg tempera. His "The Old Barn" is the accompanying reproduction. Richard Pearsall, artist in residence at Robert Louis Stevenson School, is also represented.

Skaalegaard's celebrates its first anniversary next month. On October 8 there will be a Wine Tasting Party put on by the Punch and Judy Chapter of The Children's Home Society. One lucky person will be the winner of the door prize, a marine painting by Mr. Skaalegaard donated by the artist.

Henry Miller Starts New Profession

Novelist Henry Miller, formerly of Big Sur, whose literary reputation rests largely on controversial aspects of his books written in Paris during the 30's, has branched out with a new form of self expression. A major showing of his water colors will be shown in Paris this month, and later, in Sweden and London. He also surprised friends by marrying Tokyo-born jazz pianist and vocalist Hoki Tokuda, recently.

The annual pre-opera champagne dinner of the Society of California Pioneers, whose members descend from early Californians who arrived prior to 1850, was held last week in San Francisco.

Attending from this area were Mr. and Mrs. Bertram F. Rudolph, Jr. of Carmel Highlands.

During the intermission of Ponchielli's "La Gioconda", Governor and Mrs. Ronald Reagan told the Rudolphs a little known fact. It seems that the Governor's never used middle initial is W for Wilson, his mother's maiden name. "If you run for president you've got to use it!", chided Rudolph.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

"In the multitude of dreams and many words there are also divers vanities: but fear thou God."

This verse from Ecclesiastes is the Golden Text of this week's Bible Lesson on "Unreality" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

Leslie Frewin has written a book about the forever young actress Marlene Dietrich. He says that no one actually knows Dietrich. She is "so well known, so little known". After this book you may know her a little better, because of the text and even more because of the photographs. The title is DIETRICH.

The host of followers of C. P. Snow will welcome his new book A VARIETY OF MEN. Here he has written short personal biographies of several friends of his, such as H. G. Wells, Robert Frost, Winston Churchill, and Lloyd George. One subject who was not a friend is Stalin. This is especially interesting right now because of the book by his daughter which we have on order. C. P. Snow has a whimsical aproach which should please his enthusiasts. It is unfortunate that so many other writers have known these same people and they too have written about them.

DREAM CASTLES has to do with some of the great houses of this world. Mary Cable gives us the history of eight of the world's most beautiful castles with photographs of the houses and grounds and in some cases pictures of the owners and/or builders. The human side of great houses makes interesting reading. It's a small book.

You may remember the news stories of the great dam in Suriman, which gradually filled in an artificial lake endangering thousands of wild animals. The International Society for the Protection of Animals sent a crew of men down there to try to save as many as possible of these wild creatures. The work was under the direction of John Walsh and he is now the joint author of a book entitled TIME IS SHORT AND THE WATER RISES. They labored for 18 months and were able to rescue about ten thousand animals. John Walsh had more problems than actual rescues. He had to struggle against jungle fungus and disease, personal problems, and even fights with the animals themselves. It was hard to make them realize that this trip was for their own good, and unless they were half drowned, they resisted capture with all their might. The color photographs which illustrate the book are both beautiful and interesting. It will touch your heart to see the wet and bedraggled animals clinging to a tree limb or stump as the water slowly rises around them.

The attempt to analyse Finnegan's Wake has engaged many scholars and the results have been esoteric, and intelligible to other scholars. Comes now an analysis for the middle-thinger.

Photographed on the lawn of Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach, where the reception was held after their wedding early this month are Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Matthew Klann. Since both the groom, who is attending the Defense Language School, and the bride are from Manitowoc, Wisconsin, seven plane loads of relatives and friends were flown here for the event.

Janie Albert Bride of Bradford Freeman

Miss Jane Tyrrell Albert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Albert of Pebble Beach,, became the bride of Bradford MacLean Freeman of Los Angeles, in the Erdman Memorial Chapel at Robert Louis Stevenson School, September 16. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Russell O. Freeman of Fargo, North Dakota.

The five o'clock ceremony by Reverend C. E. Wilson was followed by a reception on the terrace of the Tennis Ranch in Carmel Valley. An orchestra played for dancing.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a silk organza gown appliqued with Alencon lace. A band of stephanotis held her illusion veil in place. She caried white roses and stephanotis.

Janie chose her sisters, Mrs. Thomas Malcolm (Nancy Albert) of Los Angeles and Miss Terryl Albert of Pebble Beach, whose dresses were of azure blue chiffon, for her matron and maid of honor. The bridegroom's brother, Russell F. Freeman of Atlanta, Georga, was best man.

At the recent Pan-American Games in Canada, Janie won two gold medals for the United States in tennis. Fourth ranked woman in the U. S., she was twice California State Champion, national inter-collegiate champion and a Wimbledon quarter-finalist. Santa Catalina School for Girls alumna, Jane received her degree in psychology from Stanford University in August.

Bradford was graduated from Harvard School of Business and Stanford University. He is now associated with Dean Witter & Company in Los Angeles.

After a honeymoon at Mauna Kea in Hawaii, the couple will live in New York City for several months.

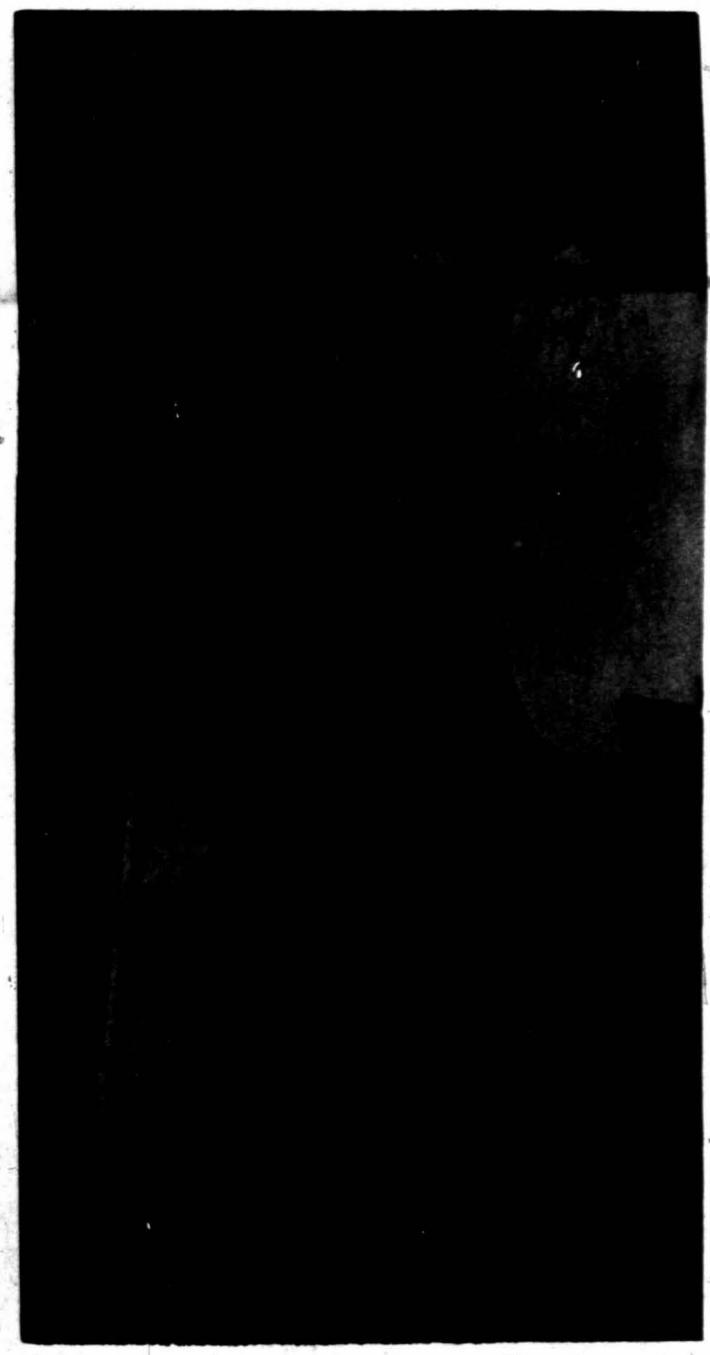
Annette Zang Thorn Marries in Sausalito

The wedding of Annette Zang Thorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Frank Zang of Carmel, to Richard Paul Gatterdam of San Francisco and Ross, took place at the First Presbyterian Church of Sausalito on September 18.

The bride was recently active in Peninsula community affairs, serving on the board of the Carmel Republican Women's Club, as associate member of the Republican County Central Committee, on the board of the Lyceum, the Carmel School Finance Committee, and as Trustee of the Carmel School District Trust.

Graduate of Vassar College, she belongs to the Junior League of San Francisco. Her children are Annette Southard Thorn, a sophomore at Smith College, and James Thorn.

Mr. Gatterdam is vice-president of a large food brokerage firm. Decorated many times for valor as a fighter pilot in World War II, he served in the Army Air Force as Lt. Colonel. Member of the San Francisco Golf Club, he has played several times in the Bing Crosby, "Fell Guys"; and Swallows Golf Tournaments at Pebble Beach. He has two sons in the service and a daughter.



Mr. and Mrs. Perry Robert Noll, Jr. (Patricia Lynn Oenning)

Patricia Oenning Weds Perry Noll, Jr.

Patricia Lynn Oenning, the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Oenning and the late Joseph H. Oenning of Carmel, and Perry Robert Noll, Jr., whose parents are from Newport Beach, were married September 12, in the Highlands Inn Chapel, Chaplain Lutz officiating.

A reception in the Lobos Room of the Highlands Inn followed the 6 o'clock ceremony at which the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Jack L. Uzzell.

Mrs. Robert Rutledge Bray III, the former Jody Oenning, was her sister's attendant. Gunnar E. Watson II, of Monterey served as best man, and Robert Rutledge Bray, III, and Terry Watson were ushers.

Patricia's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Uzzell of Monterey and H. Jack Oenning of Texas. Perry's grandmothers' Mrs. Elsie Noll and Mrs. Fern Van Deavender, both of Southern California, accompanied his parents to the wedding.

Hazel Brazil Weds Chick Adamick

A happy occasion occurred earlier this month when Hazel Mae Brazil and Charles Eugene Adamick were married at the Carmel Presbyterian Church with Dr. George Hunter Hall officiating.

The new Mrs. Adamick was given in marriage by her brother, Carlos Brazil of Carmel Valley. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moradian of Carmel. For her bridesmaids, Mrs. Adamick chose Jennie Garcia, Linda Byron and Beverly Morgan, all of Carmel. The bride's daughter, Kimberlee, served as junior bridesmaid. The color scheme was cerise, moss green and pink.

Ushers were John Waycott, Fred Holm, Tom Leist and Tom Munkittrick, all of Carmel. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Costa of Vallejo. Mr. Adamick's mother is Mrs. Christina Adamick of Johnstown, Pennsylvania.

A champagne reception with dancing was held following the ceremony after which the happy couple left for a wedding trip to San Francisco. They are at home now at Fifth and Torres.

MY MOST INTERESTING TRIP

by Mrs. Jack A. Killalee

To begin at the beginning—it all seems like a dream that we have crossed the United States, coast to coast—sailed the Atlantic Ocean into the Mediterranean—flown the Agean Sea, and now live in a foreign land. Only the babble of foreign tongues make us really know we are on the other side of the world.

Our trip was wonderful from the farewell glimpse of San Francisco skyline on the ferry boat, to the Overland Limited train which took us from the blossoming trees and spring of California, through the snow covered plains of the Middle West to snowy Chicago with its icy lakes.

There we paused for a brief visit with relatives. Then on to Washington, D. C. and New York.

Having viewed the San Francisco Skyline from a ferry at the beginning of our trip East, it was appropriate that we view the Eastern terminus from the deck of the New Jersey ferry boat, so it was we glimpsed the New York skyline on a rainy March afternoon.

Our coast to coast travel was over, and before us lay the Atlantic and beyond that our Daddy.

We saw "The Marine Carp," a converted troop ship, which was to be our home for the next two weeks. She was a big ship, at least it seemed so to us. The American Export Line had apologised for the accommodations, but there were few ships headed for the Mediterreanean. Tension filled the air, and with the uncertainty of events in the Middle East, we felt it well to sail at the first opportune moment.

"Now was the hour," and we sailed past the Statue of Liberty—her torch held high, and heard the babble of strange tongues for the first time. We met our fellow travelers, all of us headed for uncertain futures.

We entered the Mediterranean on a star studded night, my 21st wedding anniversary. The flashing lights of Gibraltar beckoning us on, the sparkling lights of Tangiers on our right, the many lighted ships, the tiny red fishing lights that seemed to outline our path as we threaded our way between them.

We saw the sunrise on the snowcapped mountains of Sicily, the fortress castles of Algiers, Sparta, and finally the thrill of the islands of Greece and Pireaus unfolding before us, and the knowledge that this was where we would get off ship. Suddenly we were there, backing in to berth beside an American cruiser and two destroyers, their men shouting a welcome for us.

Customs and Immigration officials came aboard and we changed some $5 bills into seemingly thousands of drachmas. With our heaps of money clutched in my hand we went down the side waving goodbye to our shipmates.

Our arrival was no less than sensational — no Princess could have had more attention, whether it was the roll of drachmas clutched in my fist or what, we were surrounded by a jabbering horde of men, one of whom hearing Americano—took charge.

Before I knew what was happening we were off, with a trail of porters behind us—bowed through Customs, the man yelling "Diplomat, Diplomat".

I peeled off the bills at his command for the porters, while a policeman taking in the show was laughing, either at or with us, we didn't know which. Then we were off on the wildest ride I'd ever experienced—no brakes, uphill, downhill, literally flying with the wind, hoping that God and guide would lead us to Athens and our Daddy wherever he was. We held our hats and breath and finally landed at the American Embassy in Athens.

No one ever heard of us, but in checking the airlines we learned our Daddy had flown over from Turkey by chance a day ahead of time, and was on his way—So it was we met an hour after arrival, a family reunited once more.

Italian Air Lines flew us to Turkey, close to the white-capped Aegean Sea with the Islands visible beneath us — then to 20,000 for the smooth two and a half hour flight to Istanbul.

Our first glimpse of Turkey was good, looking down on the neat trim farms, well laid out, the sections denoting families, father to son strips, colorful and neatly plowed, the houses tile topped, and I knew we would be happy there.

Customs passed us as we declared only all gold, silver and platinum possessions this so we could take them back when we leave.

Quickly we loved the gracious softspoken people who welcomed us to their country and tried to make us feel at home. We were engulfed with Turkish hospitality.

Our news comes via the American Embassy in printed pamphlets. Our radio is worldwide, we hear the chants of Arabia, the wild music of Russia, the weird

Garden Club Holds First Meeting

Mr. Richard Murray, landscape architect of Carmel, will talk at the first meeting tonight of the Monterey Peninsula Garden Club. The club will meet in its new quarters at the Recreation Center, Pacific Grove, on Junipero between 14h and Fountain Avenue. A pot-luck dinner will precede the business meeting at 6:30 p.m. Anyone interested in gardening is cordially invited.

The Complete Gardener

The fall equinox has passed by and another planting season has arrived. No less important is this one than is spring. The Complete Gardener now has beds prepared to accomodate new perennials, bearing in mind that these are more permanent. Spade deeper, using more humus and 0-10-10 throughout the future root area. Humus can be in the form of steer manure, compost or vitabark soil conditioner. Those with sandy soils will do better with the last two. Work these materials thoroughly into the soil.

If you haven't started your plants from seed, visit a nursery and make the selection. Clump planting gives the best effect, bearing in mind the ultimate heights. Tall plants should be grouped to protect each other from wind. Older perennials can be divided now, by pulling apart the clumps or dividing them with a knife. Each cutting should have its own roots and foliage. A vitamin-hormone solution will lessen the shock of transplanting. In hot situations it is well to provide partial shade until the plants are established. Hoof-and-horn, or milorganite, are both excellent foods for young perennials. Water deeply as needed, preferably in the morning.

Those who like indoor bouquets should plant a "cutting garden," isolated from the planned landscape. This bed might include delphiniums, iris, many daisy types, carnations, salvias, scabiosa and veronica.

Protect your young plantings with baits for snails, slugs, and earwigs. Spectracide in granular form will control cutworms and other soil pests.

Now let's look at the mail: Carmel: "My lilies have finished blooming. Can I remove the unsightly stalks now?" Better wait until they turn yellow and next year's food is restored to the bulb. Carmel Valley: "Is there any grass that will crowd out Bermuda?" This is a tough assignment. You can eliminate a lot of it if you spray now with a grass killer, then renovate your lawn two weeks later, then sow a heavy stand of clover and blue grass, then feed it with 16-20-0 and water deeply. Then . . . keep your fingers crossed.

POPULATION CENSUS

A population census once every five years instead of 10 has been proposed.

"Bellman of Year" Finalist

Tom Tucker of Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach, has been named as a finalist in the second annual International "Bellman of the Year" Contest, it was announced today by Robert Rissel, Resident Manager.

Jointly sponsored by the American Hotel & Motel Association and Samsonite Luggage, this yearly quest is designed to honor the bellman who is among the first to provide service to guests and is, too frequestly, among the 'forgotten men' of the innkeeping industry.

Garcia Auctions Paintings

A painting by Danny Garcia was added to the impressive list of art works auctioned Sept. 16, at the beautiful "Nugget" in Carson City, Nevada, by the American Art Foundation.

Garcia, a native of Monterey, is a modernist in his painting style, which has been influenced by the color hues and gradations observed on and under the Pacific, his favorite subject.

The art auction, to raise funds for the tax-exempt, non-profit foundation's "Artists Hall of Fame" was conducted on a "minimum bid" basis according to President Lee Peer of Reno. This, he said, will protect the stature and standings of the donating artists and sculptors who give works to the event.

"SPACE JUNK"

The amount of "space junk" in outer realms as a result of orbiting projects is now less than 700 pieces, according to the Kennedy Space Center. At one time more than 1,500 pieces were floating in space but about half have fallen back to earth and disintegrated.

High School Summer Humanities Course Results Shown Board

"Awareness, awakening, and interest in oneself and one's world" were among the results obtained from the summer humanities course at Carmel High School, according to Peter Lyon, chairman of the pilot program. "Search and exploration leading to self education" were among the "attitudes and skills in inquiry" created by the course which used teachers and material in several disciplines, art, music, history and literature. The curriculum of the course on the contributions of American minority groups to the culture of American life, had been written in lieu of a thesis by Mr. Lyon during his year at Carnegie Tech.

Slides taken by Bill Stone, Art Department head, of a day at the beach were shown in which creative activities such as sand casting were demonstrated.

Gail Cottrell, student, described how her stereotype of a Jewish rabbi had been shattered by the group's visit to a San Francisco synagogue. Joan Kramer another student, described how her whole attitude toward education had changed even toward math which she had previously hated. Another student, perhaps Chelsea Miller or Kathy McFann, felt that such a course might benefit even more, below average students who are bored and not interested in traditional school.

Before the meeting began, the school board toured the high school plant to see changes that had taken place during the summer renovation program. In other routine business, they approved new teachers.

Superintendent Dr. Harris Taylor informed the School Board that in the absence of a Dress Code policy approved by the board, nothing could be done in that area. He said that at the next regular meeting, a possible code would be submitted for their consideration.

It is entitled JOYCE-AGAIN'S WAKE and it was done by Bernard Benstock, an English Professor at a midwestern university. This is a great book to have at hand as you read the WAKE because it takes it chapter by chapter and line by line, explaining as it goes. Be our guest!

We have the usual gaggle of fiction, and films and a projector to loan, and a swell reference room where you may bring your questions for answering. What more could you ask!

wailing of the Turkish and Greek music, and the clipped precise tones of the informal B.B.C.

We have a world of travel close at hand, and we are absorbing old world atmosphere, a bit overwhelming at times, with it's antiquity and agelessness, the miracle of things done so many centuries ago and the remaining proof of it's existance. We only wish we could remember better our history and language lessons.
